I believe in what the enabling law that created the FCC says 'emphatically in your right to free speech is my right to listen'. Free means not just a traffic report, but what ever Howard Stern wishes to say. It is a parents responsibility to guide us all so that as adults we can make responsible choices. AM/FM radio is free to the listener, the new services that must be paid for should be free of any form of content restriction. If I don't like what is offered I may change service providers [ I did just that ],or not support the service. If I don't like Howard Stern then I won't listen [I don't].

What is there about Freedom that causes so much confusion?

Sincerely,

Gary E. Taylor
